	Question: Comments instructor or course
Braver	I learned so much. Very effective teacher
Braver	Dr. Braver was an exceptionally student-focused instructor. In crafting the material for the course, it was obvious that he considered and incorporated a variety of teaching strategies to accommodate a diverse group of learning styles. He shared his expertise in a way that allowed me to soak in even the most abstract concepts of phonology. I appreciate him and his class very much.
Braver	I quite enjoy the 12:30pm - 1:50pm every TR class schedule. It helps the material be broken down into small manageable increments instead of once a week
Braver	I very much appreciated how well-organized Dr. Braver was.
Braver	I love the handouts so much. Super helpful.
Braver	Everything was perfect; I like the handouts dr. Braver makes, and his way of teaching is fantastic.
Braver	The course is very helpful, and the instructor is really expert in this field.
Braver	I really appreciate Dr. Braver's efforts throughout the semester. He is a knowledgeable person who is also understanding and gracious. Throughout the first half of the semester, I really could not make head or tail of what we were doing. The material was really confusing and complicated. In the second half, things got better, and they were way better by the end of the semester. I think that the trick that worked for me was to have a look at extra readings (particularly articles) that specifically discuss the subject we tackled in each handout. This was particularly helpful when I did the later assignments. I think I did well in the last three assignments compared to the earlier assignments where I was just mechanically writing stuff without really figuring out what was going on. The features were specifically challenging and confusing, and I really disliked them. I mean the natural class features where we have to identify them by means of +/- . Overall, and based on my own experience, I suggest that the course cuts down the number of questions per each assignment (the number of questions, not the number of assignments) so that each student will have a better chance and more time to have a look at the readings and search for any extra material that might help with the assignments and the overall understanding of the subject. The fact that the assignments took too much time has adversely affected the extra reading and research required for the course. After all, working with Dr. Braver was a valuable experience this semester. And the course is intriguing. It sounds like mathematics and makes people smarter. Although the assignments were challenging, they were still enthralling.
Braver	His class is very organized and considerate for international students. I highly recommend other students to take his course. I am very happy that I took his course.
Braver	Dr. Braver is very helpful. I learned a lot of things so far. Also, I like the time slot.
